

To FCC director(s),

To allow any broadcasting network to advocate an extreme position without enforcing “equal time” for the opposing views is DANGEROUS to all broadcasting networks. If liberal networks are allowed to operate, then the Howard Stern situations occur. What if Neo-Nazi White Supremacists wish to promote white supremacy? What if church groups and atheists choose to project extreme views without rebuttal on the network? To allow Sinclair to start a “smear campaign” about incidents from over 30 years ago makes about as much sense if the Democrats decided to portray the days when George Bush was abusing alcohol and cocaine in his younger days. Sinclair might air this smear campaign, but they should be told they must provide equal and the same primetime to the Democratic Party to rebuttal the allegations and half-truths they are wishing to broadcast.

Either stop this nonsense or open Pandora’s box to many radical viewpoints in the future. What will the FCC do? Enforce current regulations or turn away for fear of retribution by the bully “bush” White House?
